A Fine Distinction

WASHINGTON Jan [illegible]—A petitioner before the court of commissioners of the Alabama claims alleged that he has not at any time mentioned in petition nor at other time or times actively or otherwise or in any way engaged in making or carrying on war against the United States, or in aiding or abetting in any way shape or manner the so called Southern Confederacy or any person or persons engaged in rebellion or making or carrying on war against the United States aforesaid The court decides this is not sufficient. The petition states in substance that he was not guilty of the crime of treason as defined by the Constitution whereas the laws expressly required him to say he had borne true allegiance to the United States during the period of the late rebellion Without such declaration the claim is admissible

Another Caucus on Southern Affairs

Republican Senators are holding a caucus to day on Southern affairs

Accident to Secretary Bristow.

Secretary Bristow yesterday slipped and sprained his leg He is confined to his bed to day

Very Important.

The President and several members of the cabinet have gone to Philadelphia to attend a party given by the Saturday Club to night.

A Committee Divided.

Five of eleven members of the committee on elections opposed the resolution of the majority to exclude Delegate Cannon from his seat

Abuses in the Indian Department.

WASHINGTON Jan 22—Luttrell has made a report to the Indian Commissioner upon his inspection of the Round Valley reservation He recommends retaining a small military force at Camp Wright for the protection of both Indians and settlers. He gives a lamentable account of the condition of the Indians says they have been maltreated in many instances and recommends agent Burchard's removal upon his own confession and other affidavits that Indians are whipped says he found many Indians subsisting on acorns pumpkins and other unfit food while surplus grain and vegetables had been sold from the reservation He opposes the removal of settlers from the reservation as proposed by Burchard before further and careful investigation is had He makes practical suggestions for instructing Indians in farming and inducing them to work

Congressional.

House has passed without amendment Houghton's bill to confirm to San Jose the title to Pueblo lands

Senator Jones has arrived and occupied his seat in the Senate to-day

Republican Caucus at Loggerheads

WASHINGTON Jan 23—The Republican senatorial caucus on southern affairs to day lasted several hours but there being conflicting views no conclusion was reached The caucus instead of giving expression to views on the Louisiana question agreed to wait the action of the committee on elections on Pinchback credentials and will therefore be governed in the Senate by the committee's report Some senators say there is no escape from the present difficulties in that state but by remanding it to the territorial condition By this means could be avoided complications growing out of the recognition of the Kellogg government and a way opened by which order may eventually be restored Others think a stronger hand ought to be stretched toward several southern states Otherwise there might be anarchy Opinions different from these are expressed by more conservative senators All seem to comprehend difficulties of the situation No distinctive plan has been presented as relief.

[illegible] Remarkable Propositions.

EVENING—There was a large attendance of the house Republican caucus to-night. General discussion of the southern question None of the measures reported by the previous caucus were acted on Finally a resolution was adopted placing the power of passing all public acts with the majority of the house A resolution for this purpose will probably be introduced in the House Monday When adopted it will have the effect of avoiding the two-thirds rule as to public acts, including the civil rights bill, a more energetic enforcement of the [illegible] tive laws in the south and authorizing the President to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in certain [illegible] with other measures which have been subjects under consideration by the caucus committee Proceedings are reported to have [illegible] harmonious and the result entirely satisfactory

Light and Fog Signal at Point Adams.

Notice is given by the lighthouse board that on and after February 15th a light will be shown from the lighthouse recently erected at Point Adams at the south entrance of the Columbia river, Oregon The light will be characterized by alternate red and white flashes at intervals of ten seconds. Notice is also given that on and after the same day a fog whistle will be sounded at this station during thick and foggy weather giving a blast of seven [illegible] duration at intervals of fourteen seconds then a blast of four seconds, followed by an interval of thirty five seconds The fog signal house is painted white and is situated 100 feet from the light house ten degrees east.

THE RECENT TRANSIT OF VENUS

THE SUN'S PARALLAX

NEW YORK, Jan 17—The World publishes a cable dispatch from London, saying the first tentative computations made at Greenwich of data obtained from observations of the recent transit of Venus yielded results somewhat different from what was expected Four calculations made independently give the sun's parallax as being respectively 9 6", 9 40", 9 [illegible]" and 9 20", the mean being 9 21 The computations [illegible] made by Prof G Henrici of the University College Frederick Cuttrie of the Royal School of Mines and Art and Messrs Dunkin and Ellis assistants at the Royal Observatory Greenwich No calculations have yet been completed at Kew Observatory The computations were made only on the basis of the moments of external and internal contact as reported from different points of observation and may be much modified when the photographic and micrometric measurements are taken into account

Based on this dispatch the World remarks on the authority of an American astronomer

To say that the sun's parallax has been ascertained to be 9 21", is to say that the sun is distant from us about 88 41[illegible] 26 miles This is 6 [illegible] 274 miles less than the distance made out by Locke from observations of the last transit, and three or four millions less than results obtained by more recent measurements If this ratio were constant, we should require 1,440 years to overcome the entire distance, and fall into the sun but as it is certain that our centripetal motion would be vastly accelerated as we got closer within the sphere of the sun's attraction unless his force should be proportionately decreased or his volume reduced it is also probable that we should consume very much less time than above given in making the tremendous journey

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON THE FINANCES

WASHINGTON Jan 1[illegible]—The message of the President on finance sent to the Senate to day with his approval of the Senate bill for the resumption of specie payment calls the attention of Congress to the necessity for increased revenue to carry out the obligation of adding to the sinking fund annually one per cent of the public debt and the provision of the bill to redeem $80 000,000 of legal tenders and suggests the restoration of the duty on tea and coffee, and the repeal of the ten per cent. reduction on certain articles by the act of June 6 1872. He next calls attention to the necessity of preventing the purchasing of silver for exportation and the consequent enhancement of the premium, and suggests that the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to redeem legal tenders with gold when presented in sums of not less than one hundred dollars or any multiple thereof, at the premium of gold at ten per cent less interest at the rate of two and a half per cent. per annum from January 1 1875 diminishing the premium at the same rate till final resumption, changing the rate of premium demanded from time to time as the interest amounts to [illegible] of one per cent The President suggests the rate of interest mentioned, because it would bring currency at par with gold at the date fixed by the law for final resumption He believes ten per cent. premium on gold will insure the retention of silver in the country for change He says the provisions of the third section of the act will prevent combinations made to exhaust the treasury of coin With such a law it is presumable that no gold would be called for not required for legitimate business purposes When large amounts of coin should be drawn from the treasury, correspondingly large amounts of currency would be withdrawn from circulation, thus causing a sufficient stringency in currency to stop an outward flow of coin The advantages of a currency of a fixed known value would also be reached In my opinion, by the enactment of such a law business and industries would revive and the beginning of prosperity on a firm basis would be reached The President thinks other means should probably be devised for increasing the revenue and says that in order to carry out the first section of the act, another mint becomes a necessity, as the present facilities for coinage are insufficient and in view of the facts that a large proportion of change will be required in the Mississippi valley, and that bullion comes from the West he thinks the question of establishing a new mint at Chicago St Louis or Omaha should be considered The President says in conclusion I have ventured upon this subject with great diffidence because it is so unusual to approve a measure as I most heartily do this, even if no further legislation is obtainable at this time, and to announce the fact by message but I do so because I feel that it is a subject of such vital importance to the whole country that it should receive the attention of and be discussed by Congress and the people through the press and in every way to the end that the best and most satisfactory course may be reached of executing what I deem most beneficial legislation on a most vital question to our interests and prosperity"

The rumor is current that the Grangers of Clarke county will purchase the Alta House at Vancouver, and convert it into a large warehouse A substantial wharf will also be erected on the river front of the property

THE STORM IN CALIFORNIA.

The Flood in Marysville

Great Destruction of Property—Damaged Goods, Bridges and Levees Washed Away, Etc.

MARYSVILLE Jan 22—Water subsided damage more apparent street obstructed with cordwood barrels boxes dead cattle etc Merchants raised goods on boxes and counter but only in a few cases above high water mark Aggregate loss in twenty business houses sufficient to build a good levee around the city The damage to public buildings is quite serious Loss at Marysville woolen mills probably the largest of any single property A number of churches considerably damaged while others escaped injury The levees can be rebuilt and made substantial under intelligent management with no large expenditure of money The break in the north levee back of the county hospital is about 300 feet in length and there are other smaller breaks Stores saloons and shops reopened and a general clean up commenced Bridges gone between First and Second wards, boats engaged in carrying passengers across the slough water falling slowly John Williams and Thomas Pardee were drowned also Joseph Laughley six years old A relief committee has been formed, consisting of Mayor Hawley J H Jewett H D Rideout, W T Ellis and A J Batchelder with headquarters at city hall They find much destitution Clothing and bedding is especially needed A portion of Yuba bridge was carried away and the 200 feet bridge over slaughter house slough was carried away The Oroville and Oregon railroads considerably washed but being repaired A great loss of stock is reported from the surrounding country Donations for sufferers coming in freely

COLUSA Jan 23—Three inches and eighteen hundredths of rain fell here since the 19th and it is still raining hard The river is within 13 inches of high water mark and rising fast Levees stand well above town but gave way in two places on Grand Island Parks dam still stands but will probably be full by morning There is five feet of snow on the summit between Lakeport and Bartlett's springs The flood at Allen springs swept summer houses bath houses and an immense pile of cord wood down to the new hotel The loss is variously estimated at from $1 000 to $2 000

CHICO Jan 23—The storm of the last few days has been the most severe since 1862 Both telegraph lines are prostrated Railroad communication has been closed for the last three days and cannot tell when trains will be running Passengers mail and express are brought from Sacramento by boat to Chico landing, and connect with the cars for Redding In our vicinity there were no losses from the flood Yesterday in a few hours our citizens raised $1 500 to aid the Marysville relief committee to help our sister city with which we all deeply sympathize, in their misfortunes It has been raining 24 hours, very steady with prospects of another heavy storm Telegraphic communication restored

VISALIA Jan 22—The weather is cloudy and warm here to day Wind southwest with indications of more rain A splendid season is already assured. It is hardly possible that more rain could cause any overflow there being very little snow left on the foot hills where it would melt

PETALUMA, Jan 23—It has been raining here for the last week with but few hours intermission, and is still raining Wind south west

SAN DIEGO Jan 23—It is clear and pleasant with west wind Thermometer 62°

SANTA ROSA Jan 23—The rain still continues to fall heavily with little or no wind Since Saturday 7 inches are recorded making a total fall for the season of nearly 30 inches

MERCED Jan 23—It commenced raining at noon light so far wind southeast

SALINAS Jan 23—It commenced raining here about 6 o clock this morning and has rained steadily since

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 23—Rained hard all day Still raining wind south no prospect of clearing up

STANISLAUS Jan 22—During the high freshet of Tuesday last Kearney's ferry boat across the Tuolumne near Old Paradise swung loose from her moorings and floated near the center of the stream She was securely fastened by pulleys to the main cross cable Two men White and Polkinhorn started in a small boat with the view of attaching a tow line so a larger one could be drawn ashore again From some cause they went on the upper side of the ferry boat instead of on the lower and in attempting to board the large boat the smaller one was capsized and sucked under carrying with it Polkinhorn White succeeded in regaining the ferry boat and was thus saved Polkinhorn was never seen after capsizing the boat Up to the present time his remains have not been recovered

STOCKTON Jan 23—Dr J D Dowling whose farm is on the Sonora road 12 miles from this city was drowned on his premises about 10 clock Thursday evening The water had overflowed a portion of his premises In order to reach his barn he was obliged to walk a plank that was raised some distance above the surface of the water In making this attempt he fell off and was drowned, although the water was only one foot deep He fell upon his face and was too feeble to raise himself up When found he had been in the water 5 minutes He was a native of Ohio aged 60 He came to California from Texas in 1850, and has resided in this county ever since

DRUIDISM STILL PRESERVED IN WALES

I have just obtained through a Welsh friend a few items concerning a mysterious sect in the south of Wales, concerning which no record whatever exists, but which I believe to be the very last remnant of the ancient Druidic religion

The people belonging to the little sect are few and poor, they dwell scattered among the hills in the neighborhood of Pontypridd They gather together only twice every year—on the summer and the winter solstice They then ascend a mountain called Eglwysilan This mountain's name seemed derived from Eglwys (French Eglise) Church and ilan a height, but the mysterious religionists say that the latter word—Ilan—is the name of their founder The mountain is connected with antiquity by having on its top a holy (rocking) stone, and near its base the remains of an old (so called Druidic) temple, circular but with a long sinuous line of stones such as are thought by some a relict of serpent worship When these brethren assemble at the mountain's base at the solstice they are headed by an aged man who bears in his hand a long wand At the top of this wand is a small sphere with three prongs, like divulgent rays issuing from one side of it My informant asked one of the solstitials what was the meaning of this sphere and its three prongs He replied that the sphere was "the sphere" and as for the three prongs you will find three in everything he said "in leaves and trees particularly" The pilgrims march silently after their aged leader with the wand up the mountain and when they arrive there he preaches to them a strange sort of mixture of materialism and fetichism —London Cor Cincinnati Commercial

LOUISIANA AFFAIRS

REPORT OF THE SUB COMMITTEE OF CONGRESS—THEY AGREE AS TO THE FACTS BUT NOT AS TO THE REMEDY

WASHINGTON Jan 1[illegible]—The report of the sub - committee on Louisiana matters is made public

The committee review the action of the returning board and declare it manifestly arbitrary unjust and illegal and that this alone prevented the return of a majority of Conservatives to the lower house of the Legislature As to intimidation of colored voters while some witnesses testified in a general way to intimidation no one testified to any personal knowledge of it nor was any one produced who had been intimidated or threatened or assaulted, because of political opinions or discharged or refused employment Nearly all the white witnesses were office holders None succeeded in naming in any parish five Republicans who supported the Kellogg government who were not office-holders or relatives of office holders On the other hand, the use of Federal troops was under directions of the United States marshals who not only made many arrests immediately before election, but reported that they were coming to particular neighborhoods about the time of election which served, the Conservatives claim to intimidate the white voters

As an instance of the different light in which the two parties view things, the committee say the U S commissioners in the parish of Iberia arrested a number of white men just previous to the election upon the application of negroes He then required sureties for the arrested parties who possessed real estate within the parish certified to by the parish assessor to be of sufficient value and with the title approved by the register of deeds This rule produced delay in procuring bail and a procession of citizens waited on him and offered a bond signed by all This he regarded as derision of his proceedings and refused to accept the bond. A witness called to prove intimidation in that parish, cited this as the only case of intimidation that came to his knowledge Thought the procession calculated to intimidate the negroes On the other hand, the Conservatives thought his proceedings calculated to intimidate the whites

The committee found some difference of opinion in the reports of United States military officers stationed in the country The evidence showed some cases where negroes were maltreated for voting the Conservative ticket One was shot for making a Conservative speech and even in New Orleans negroes who sought to co-operate with Conservatives were so abused that an association of lawyers volunteered to protect them, but with little effect

The committee give an account of the general condition of affairs in the State, and the conviction among the whites that the Kellogg government was a usurpation the general lack of confidence in State and local officials, the heavy decline in State securities, and exorbitant taxes reduction of wages and non fulfillment of personal or political pledges, malfeasance of local officials, disputes among leading colored persons loss or embezzlement in some cases of school funds and failure of the Freedman's Bank, all of which combined to divide the views of colored voters. During the campaign Conservatives sought and successfully, to secure a portion of colored votes, and the result was that in November, 1874, the people of Louisiana did fairly have a free peaceable registry and election, in which a clear Conservative majority was elected to the lower house of the Legislature, of which majority they were deprived by the unjust and illegal action of the returning board

The committee say there are turbulent spirits in the State, and quote an editorial from the Shreveport News advising the killing of radicals returned as elected who were not elected but they do not believe this reflects the feelings of the people Though all admit that the white people of the whole State were greatly outraged by the action of the returning board and all concede that the Kellogg Government was only upheld by Federal bayonets Governor Kellogg says this is because of the doubt Congress has permitted about the legality of his government but the Conservatives say his government is not only illegal, but corrupt and abusive

In relation to the White League the committee give statements of members as to its origin and design, and add that a large number of Republicans belong to it and that there is no evidence of its existence to any extent out of New Orleans Republicans assert however, that the League is an armed body of volunteers organized for the purpose of intimidating negroes and overthrowing the Kellogg Government This assertion is not, however supported by any evidence On the other hand it was asserted by the Conservatives that Black Leagues existed The committee do not doubt that the White League would readily co operate in any feasible scheme for overthrowing the Kellogg Government, but so will substantially all the white citizens of Louisiana

The committee give a detailed account of affairs of the 14th of September and say the Conservatives of Louisiana do not propose to fight the Federal Government, but submit, not because they want to [illegible] they would avoid trouble The [illegible] themselves defrauded out of the [illegible] of 1872, and still more so out of that of 1874, and that they think their State Go[illegible] has been to the last degree destructive and corrupt

The [illegible] their belief that the substantial citi[illegible] of the [illegible] will submit to any fair determination of the question of the late election or to anything by which they can have a firm and good government What they seek is peace and opportunity for prosperity To [illegible] and they will support any form of govern[illegible] that will afford them just protection In [illegible] they have got beyond any mere question of political party

The committee report at length facts in relation to the attempt at organization of the legislature on the 4th inst , and conclude by saying that they have been unable to agree on any recommendations but on the report all are agreed

TWENTY MILES AN HOUR

Tom Sanders of Buffalo owns a little lazy slow mare, that is the ridicule of his friends One recent evening he and some of these friends were talking of horses when he astonished them in offering to bet $100 that he could ride his mare twenty miles in an hour He counted out the money in a tantalizing way, remarking that his mare had been laughed at long enough and he had made up his mind to show what she could do It seemed like robbing Tom, so they all said to take his bet but he insisted and the stakes were put in trustworthy hands A day was chosen for the trial and when it came Tom led them to the Central Railroad depot where the homely little mare was found aboard a baggage car Tom had ticketed her for Rochester by express, and when the train was ready to start he got on her back smiling triumphantly He said he reckoned that he could ride that way twenty miles in an hour unless the time table lied Away went the train, with the referee holding his watch and the three fellows who had joined in the bet against the mare very sorrowful of expression About fifteen miles had been run in about half an hour, and Tom was grinning in anticipation of an easy victory, when the car bumped over something and he was thrown from the mare by hastily applied air brakes An axle had broken, and the train was stopped more than an hour And Tom was not so rueful over his loss of the stakes and the failure of his trick as he was over his stupidity in not thinking of taking the mare off the car and riding the rest of the twenty miles as there had been ample time to do within the hour

The Yamhill Courier says "Some time since a justice of the peace, residing near the Polk county line sold some land and made out a deed therefore to his grantee The justice had a wife who had to join in the deed The laws of this State require that a married woman's deed to be valid must be acknowledged separate and apart from her husband In this case the justice made the deed himself and took the acknowledgment and certified that he had examined his own wife, 'separate and alone from her husband,' and that she acknowledged that she executed the same freely without fear or compulsion from any one Tally one for Yamhill.

The Corvallis Gazette of last Saturday, says Wm Beck, the mail carrier on the Yaquina route had a rough trip last Friday and Saturday When he left [illegible], on Friday morning the Yaquina and Elk rivers were frozen over nearly sufficient to bear up a man Such a thing was never [illegible] the settlement of the country by the whites. Another singular incident was that he found but little more snow at the summit of the coast range of mountains than in this valley and along the foothills [illegible] from four to six inches, except where drifted. After that the snow accumulated a few inches [illegible] —perhaps eight or ten inches [illegible] ties upon the mountains. At this [illegible] it has nearly all disappeared, and as a consequence, the streams are very much swollen and the roads exceedingly soft.

The G[illegible] of last [illegible] "The river has not [illegible] over at [illegible] but was so full of slush ice as to prevent [illegible] and [illegible] comfortable, if not [illegible] for two or three days. MONDAY MORNING JANUARY 25 1875

CANNON

Five of the eleven members composing the House committee on elections oppose the resolution agreed to by the majority, for the refusal of a seat to Cannon, the polygamous member from Utah There may be some technical objection to the action of the majority, which not knowing all the facts we are not in a condition to see but upon any other ground than a merely technical one it is difficult to comprehend how any right minded member of Congress could oppose the resolution Aside from questions of procedure questions touching the method of disposing of the case, rather than affecting its merits it would seem there ought to be little difference of opinion Cannon is a leader of the Mormon church and lives with several concubines in open defiance of the laws of the country and of the moral sentiments of the nation. It is not always practicable to set up a moral standard by which to determine the eligibility of candidates for public office, but it is practicable for the members of either house of Congress to declare and maintain that no flagrant violator of the laws against murder, theft or polygamy, shall occupy a seat beside themselves It is practicable for the House to say that if any community seeks to force into the position of equality with its members a person who lives a life of open shame, such as shocks the sense of the civilized world, the effort shall prove a failure The right secured to each house to judge of the election and qualification of its own members, certainly means something more than the barren and lifeless power to decide whether a person has been duly elected, and whether he has taken the oath of office If it had been intended to restrict it within these narrow legal limitations, it would have been vested in the law courts True, with the more latitudinous construction the power may be subject to abuse It may be exercised wantonly, or be made an instrument of dangerous and revolutionary measures But that is only one of the defects that inhere in all human government The people have intrusted their national representatives with the power to protect themselves while in the discharge of their public duties, against being forced into association with felons, and that power should be not too sparingly exercised

THE "ILL BIRD" OF THE BULLETIN CAGED

The repeated attacks of the present editor of the Bulletin on all persons who took part in the independent movement last spring are likely to recoil upon himself, as appears from the following, which we clip from the Salem Record of the 22d instant

> The Bulletin of yesterday alludes to the fact that the State is $300 000 in debt and makes the following comment: "That is what we owe to the partnership between the Democrats and Independents in the last Legislature"
> Last spring we issued an edition of 5,000 extras, [illegible] to the people of Oregon to cut loose from old political parties and organize an independent movement. All of the evils of political history were exhaustively summed up, occupying two columns of space, showing the corruption of both parties and the necessity of treating public affairs with common honesty The call was gotten up with much ability and being especially interested in the subject we furnished the 5,000 copies for $60 and paid $50 out of our own purse for expressing it to different parts of Oregon Ten dollars of the sum charged has never yet been paid us and we are willing to lose it because the cause was good and the independent movement resulted in an [illegible] controlling power that banished all political prejudice from the last legislature. We are willing to lose the ten dollars, even though incurred at the time that the author of the spirit-stirring call would see that we were paid, but we are not willing to have the aforesaid author add insult to injury by thus attempting to asperse the independent movement he had so ably helped to plan. Surely he might even edit the Bulletin without stultifying himself in this way It is an ill bird that fouls his own nest

The course of the editor of the Bulletin in this matter, cannot but be a surprise to many who have thought they knew him, but who were not aware of the relation he sustained to the independent movement It may be natural enough for the sow that was washed to return to wallowing in the mire, but when she goes so far as to make war on all [illegible] that [illegible] to be partakers of her uncleanness, we hope, for the credit of other swine, her case may properly be con[illegible] anomalous.

MATT CARPENTER RENOMINATED

Senator Carpenter has received the nomination of the Republicans, of the Wisconsin Legislature for re-election. He distanced all competitors, while competitors were in the field, and then the nomination was made unanimous His election, it is presumed, is beyond a question

From this it appears the Republicans who composed the caucus were not disposed to regard very highly the remonstrance presented them a few days since In that document, which was signed by over a thousand men who were claimed to be [illegible] of [illegible] in the party, it was stated that the election of Mr Carpenter would be so unsatisfactory to the [illegible] of the party as in all probability to break up the organization in the State But the representatives of the party in the Legislature, may naturally, have concluded that if the party is proof against the effect of the corruptions that have crept into it everywhere, it can not be killed by the re election of a man who whatever may be the personal objections to him, has never opened his hand to take a bribe nor lifted his voice in defense of acknowledged political rascality Matt Carpenter is either a badly slandered man, or else, like Jim Bludso he ain't no Saint but he is a Senator of undoubted ability, and is generally found on the right side in the Senate Chamber If he has made mistakes in his public career, there are few Senators of equal prominence who have been less often in error

GIVE US MORE OF THEM

Algernon Sidney Paddock, U S Senator-elect for Nebraska, is spoken of as a conservative Republican who, notwithstanding his election against the protest of those who hold the organization of the party in that State, is recognized as wholly sound on Republican principles That is just the description of men that this country needs just now men of sound conservative Republican principles who can be trusted to stand up always for the equal rights of all citizens, regardless of race color or previous condition of servitude and who at the same time have the moral courage and conscientiousness to refuse obedience to any and every unrepublican behest that selfish party managers may issue We hope Paddock may prove exactly such a man as is described The country can never have too many of them and certainly the Republican party has use for all it can muster of such, to save it from the ruin its selfish manipulators would bring upon it

THE AMENDE HONORABLE

The Pendleton Tribune after correcting an erroneous statement it made a week or two ago concerning the location of a town in Eastern Oregon thus proceeds to another correction

> While our hand is in we may as well correct another incorrect statement that we made some two or three weeks ago The statement was to the effect that Calvin B McDonald had withdrawn from the Salem Statesman This assertion was based on information to that effect in the New Northwest but it has since proved to be without foundation McDonald was only drunk and Mr Protem or Mr Adinterim acted in his place until he became sober enough to again sling Arnold's fluid
> Only this and nothing more

Washington advices indicate that both Democratic and Republican politicians at Washington are puzzled by the situation No wonder Amidst such a deluge of conflicting reports as has flowed out from Louisiana it would tax the ingenuity of persons unembarrassed by partisan objects to arrive at the truth and the politician is, of course, more at a loss what to do Both crowds are holding caucuses and discussing the situation each from its peculiar stand point It would be a happy end of this deplorable affair if all hands would agree to waive the question of party advantage and co-operate for the restoration of peace and good government to the distracted communities of the South

A good deal has been said through the press about the treatment of Boss Tweed in the Blackwell's Island prison and it has been supposed his imprisonment was merely nominal while in fact he lived like a prince A New York dispatch shows that such is by no means the truth, or else a job was put up on the grand jury that visited the prison on the 16th instant They reported that they found Tweed occupying a small, ill ventilated room and dressed in prison garments The room formerly occupied by him was also visited It is said by the Herald to be one such as the poorest boarding house in New York should certainly be able to rival in furniture, light space and comfort

We give our readers this morning, more at length than heretofore, the report of the congressional sub-committee on Louisiana matters The storms have so interrupted telegraphic communication as to render it impossible to give all the particulars of this exciting case as fast as events have transpired It is hoped sufficient can be gleaned from the detached reports that reach us from time to time, to enable our readers to form correct conclusions on the subject

In the Cincinnati Commercial's report of a convention of dentists lately held, it is stated that during the afternoon, Dr Jennings, of Cleveland reported a remarkable case where a lady's tongue, out of whose mouth he had extracted fifteen teeth, became stiffened and finally so loose that in a fit of coughing it was suddenly thrown from her mouth entirely Notwithstanding this fact the woman retained her special sense of taste and also the power of speech so that she could be easily understood

A man named Ullery recently outraged a little girl aged 9 years at Urbana, Ohio He was arrested and put in jail to await his trial On the 17th inst, forty masked men entered the jail yard overpowered the keeper and took out the prisoner and hanged him to the nearest tree

William Parr, who first applied the name "carpet bagger" to the adventurers who went down South after the war to make their fortunes in politics, died lately in extreme poverty near Suffolk Virginia The expressive appellation he gave to the scalawags will not die so soon

On Saturday night, Dec 16 three negroes encamped near Clinton, Louisiana, were attacked by a white man who killed two of them A posse were in pursuit of the murderer at last accounts

WHAT THE FULL COMMITTEE GO TO NEW ORLEANS FOR

A Washington dispatch of 19th inst thus explains the object of the journey of the full committee on Southern affairs in going to Louisiana, after the return of the sub-committee

> It is now well known that there was no ground for the charge that the full committee on southern affairs sought to repress the report on its presentation to the full committee It was recommitted simply to have incorporated what the members saw in the State House during the time of the attempted organization of the legislature It was thought that statements of these members as to exactly what occurred, was the best evidence the House could have The only effort has been to prevent its premature publication The sub-committee's report is fully sustained by the evidence taken and no member of the full committee takes issue with its statements as is shown by its unanimous adoption The conclusion of the remainder of the committee to visit New Orleans was consequent upon appeals from Kellogg and both Republican branches of the legislature who urged the necessity of testimony outside of that city They will investigate especially the extent of intimidation throughout the State at the last election and the character strength and purpose of the White League They do not go with the expectation of obtaining anything to overthrow the sub-committee's report

ACTION BY BONDHOLDERS OF THE N P R R.—Washington Jan [illegible]—The Pacific railroad committee of the House this morning heard a motion on behalf of the bondholders of the Northern Pacific railroad, asking that no action be had on the bill granting aid to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company until they can be fully heard The bondholders also by Alexander Porter Morse of counsel filed objections to some of the provisions of the bill and submitted certain proposed amendments and both matters were referred to a sub committee for future consideration

INCORPORATION OF RAILROADS IN TERRITORIES—Washington Jan 16—The bill for incorporation of railroads in Territories passed by the House is McCormick's bill of last session with a provision added on motion of Holman specifically reserving to future States the right to regulate railroad charges on roads to which the bill applies

The Vancouver Register of last Saturday says The extreme lowness of the river during the past week drained nearly every well in town and to make matters worse the reservoir of the Water Company became exhausted owing to the extraordinary drain upon it in consequence of its patrons all trying to keep their pipes from freezing by allowing the water to run

SIMON VS STATE TREASURER

PORTLAND Jan 2[illegible] 187[illegible]

To [illegible] While you have the floor, will you please explain how the case of Simon vs Brown State Treasurer could have been made up for the express purpose on the part of both plaintiff and defendant, of procuring a decision on the question of the applicability of funds in the treasury derived from taxation in 1874 75 to the payment of warrants issued in pursuance of the appropriation law of 1872 in the face of the fact that payment of warrant No 3[illegible] was sought out of $7 000 currency alleged in the complaint to have been received into the treasury otherwise than by taxes

And will you please direct the attention of the bench and bar to the rule of pleading which required an affirmative allegation in the complaint that warrant No [illegible] was issued in pursuance of the appropriation law of 1872, upon which allegation depends the legality of the warrant

It had been supposed that the legality of the warrant depended upon the question whether there had been an appropriation by law upon which the warrant was drawn rather than upon the allegations of a complaint

Again since no money shall be drawn from the treasury but in pursuance of appropriations made by law (Art [illegible] Sec [illegible] Constitution of Oregon) and then only on warrants drawn by the Secretary of State upon the Treasurer (Code p 492 Sec [illegible]) and since the courts presume that official duty has been regularly performed (Code, p [illegible] Sec 1[illegible]) and take judicial knowledge of the public and private official acts of the legislative department of this State (Code p 2[illegible]0 Sec [illegible]) and since warrant 393 which was copied into the complaint shows on its face that it was drawn by the Secretary of State upon the treasury and was payable out of the centennial commission substitute fund for which an appropriation of $4 000 was made by act of Oct 24 1872 Why was it incumbent upon plaintiff's attorney to inform the court by an allegation in the complaint that warrant No 393 was issued in pursuance of the appropriation law of 1872? It is barely possible that upon reflection you may be able to perceive that so far as plaintiff was concerned this case was made up to test the question whether warrant No 393 was payable out of money received into the general fund of the State treasury otherwise than for taxes and that in holding the affirmative the court has settled that point as to all similar warrants and similar moneys coming into the treasury

UP THE COLUMBIA.

A FEARFUL CATASTROPHE—MOTHER AND THREE CHILDREN BURIED UNDER A SNOW SLIDE—ONLY ONE ESCAPES—CONDITION OF STOCK—A SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

Under date of Saturday, the 22d inst., the Oregon Steam Navigation Company have kindly furnished the following dispatches. The dispatches are sent from Walla Walla.

We have been furnished with some of the particulars of a most terrible calamity which has resulted in the death of a woman and two of her children. It seems that a man named Tate, living about eleven miles in an easterly direction from this city, between Dry creek and Blue creek, left his house on Thursday morning to assist a neighbor with some stock, leaving his wife and three children, aged respectively seven and five and a baby. When he returned in the evening he found his house leveled to the ground and buried under the snow, a snow slide having occurred probably soon after the husband and father's departure, carrying every thing before it. Search was made and the dead bodies of his wife and two children were found in the stable, while the baby, who had been in bed at the time of the catastrophe, was found still snugly covered up in the bed and buried in the ruins asleep and unharmed. From the tracks found, it seems that the whole family had been buried up, and that the mother had first extricated herself and then rescued her two oldest children from the ruins of the house. Whether they were dead or only injured, is not known; but the mother carried them to the stable, which was unharmed, and had lain them down side by side. She then attempted to go to a neighbor's, probably for help, but the snow being very deep, she had found it impossible to go, and had returned and laid herself down beside her two children, where she was found, as above stated, all three of them being dead. It is not exactly known, but is probably the case, that she was more or less injured by the snow slide, and that her exertions in rescuing her children and in attempting to go to the neighbor's, joined in causing her death. These are the outlines of the affair as detailed by a neighbor of the unfortunate family, and is one of the most heartrending casualties that we have ever been called upon to chronicle. The ill-fated house was situated at the foot of a high and steep hill and the snow was drifted to a great depth, but as such accidents are of very rare occurrence here, no one ever dreamed of danger there from that source.

From all directions we hear of more or less loss of stock. In some instances owners made little or no provision for their stock, trusting to luck and the chances for an open winter to carry them through. In most cases, however, there is plenty of feed, but there are a great many whose stock had strayed away and they have been unable to find them and get them home since the storm. Those stray cattle are generally the ones that suffer most and are dying off the fastest. We also hear of quite a heavy loss among sheep, but the ones that die are generally either old ones or those that have been brought into the country from abroad and have not yet become acclimated. In the aggregate the loss of stock is likely to be considerable, and especially so if we are to have much more bad weather between this time and the opening of spring.

The family of Mr. Cummings, living on the Wallula road below the mouth of the Touchet, seem to be particularly unfortunate. [In our issue of the 18th inst. we gave an account of the great misfortune that had happened to the mother of the family.—ED.] We now have the case of a terrible accident that happened to one of the sons, a young man aged eighteen years. In some manner or other he jumped against the handle of a pitchfork with such force that the handle passed almost through the body, on a line with the pelvis, and passed through to the backbone. Dr. Blalock was called to the relief of the young man and thinks it possible that he may recover. The shock of this accident is said to have hastened the death of his mother, who passed away shortly after its occurrence. The accident happened on Monday last and up to this writing the unfortunate youth is still alive.

THE WEATHER.

The weather was as follows last evening at the points mentioned:

Dalles—Clear; thermometer, 27°.

Wallula—Cloudy; thermometer, 20°.

Walla Walla—Been snowing a little all day and still snowing; thermometer, 24°.

Umatilla—Cloudy; thermometer, 27°; looks like snow.

Cascades — Weather cloudy; thermometer, 32°.

The winter is fairly upon us. We must keep warm no matter what the cost. Don't go about like a frozen man, but straighten up and boldly enter the establishment of BECK & WALDMAN, and ask them to show you those heavy winter goods. They'll do it, and what's more, will not astonish you with big prices because of the cold weather. On the contrary, they propose to make their patrons happy by clothing them well, and at the same time charging a low price to suit the present times. Don't wait until it is too late, but go now.

If you would keep warm buy yourself a big Overcoat, Gloves, and last but not least, good Underclothing, all of which KOHN, opposite the National Bank, keeps in large quantities. You can be suited without a doubt. In addition to the above he has a fine assortment of Dress Suits, Furnishing Goods. The prices are down—like the thermometer is just now. Don't wait until the winter is over and be in misery, but buy now while the prices are down.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Yesterday the weather was much inclined to be foggy.

The steamer Ajax has arrived in safety at San Francisco from Astoria.

The steamers Commodore Perry and Vancouver have been moved up to the upper sawmill.

Distressingly moral thus far the present month; only 34 arrests made by the police.

A large drove of sheep were brought over on the ice yesterday from the eastern shore.

The planking of G street, between North First and North Second, has been partially completed.

Books for subscription to the East Portland Dock and Wharf Company will be opened at the City hotel next week.

The almost impassable condition of the river has again rendered the postponement of the funeral of the late R. J. Ladd necessary.

Although the ice on the river is regarded as unsafe, persons are crossing over at short intervals. Necessity sometimes makes one venturesome.

Jas. Kelly, the brakeman whose feet were frozen a short time since, is rapidly convalescing. He is now able to walk about with the aid of a crutch.

Since Saturday the police have arrested four persons—a Chinaman for disorderly conduct and using abusive language, and three men for being drunk.

During the past week a bright fire could be seen every night on the very summit of Robinson's Hill among the timber. It was doubtless the trunk of a large tree burning.

Meetings this evening: Harmony Lodge No. 12, A. F. & A. M.; Willamette Tribe No 6, I. O. R. M.; North Portland Lodge No. 2, I. O. G. T.; Cleanthe Grove No. 4, U. A. O. D.

A man fell through a weak spot in the ice on Saturday. Fortunately he held a long stick in his hand, which enabled him to sustain himself and finally crawl out on the ice.

The ice jam at the head of the slough moved about 10 feet on Saturday, where the O. S. N. Co.'s boats are lying. The movement caused several boats to part their lines, but did no damage.

Some cool speculating thief stole, a few days ago, the only thermometer which Major Johnson, of East Portland, had. It was a scurvy trick to steal a temperature indicator when the instruments were so low.

The stern parent of several marriageable daughters was heard to declare that he found it necessary to repair the sag to his front gate at least once a month. He has never thought to ask the girls the cause of it.

Two young men, aged 17 and 18 years, respectively, had a dispute regarding the productions of a youthful poet. The feeling between them became so bitterly intense that the elder challenged the younger to a duel. Time, place, weapons, seconds and surgeons have not been selected yet.

"O! your nose is as cold as ice," a father thought he heard his daughter exclaim the other evening, as he was reading in the next room. He walked in for an explanation, but the young fellow was at one end of the sofa and the girl at the other, while both looked so innocent and unconscious the old gentleman concluded his ears had deceived him, and so retired from the scene without a word.

STARVING KANSAS.

Col. Dudley Evans, Agent for Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express in this city, has just received the following letter from Mr. Valentine, of San Francisco. Accompanying the letter is a blank subscription list, headed by a statement of the terrible condition of affairs which exist in Kansas and Nebraska, and making the most urgent appeals for assistance at once. Reference is made to the statement in Mr. Valentine's letter. The letter says:

GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE,
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15th, 1874.

To Agents:—The statement which heads the accompanying subscription list is no idle story of wretchedness, but one that is exceptionally worthy of consideration, because of the extent and long continuance of the suffering. It is not exceeding the actual facts to say that women and children beseech relief from bitter distress, and question Providence because their prayers are seemingly unheard or unanswered.

The present need of the sufferers is urgent, as has at not been, but it will continue for the next four months, therefore we entreat our agents and all who sympathize with misfortune, to give instant heed to this appeal and to continue their efforts personally and persistently.

Each agent is requested to solicit and accept subscriptions of money or clothing of any kind, remitting the money free, without delay, to Aaron Stein, care W. F. & Co., San Francisco, and the clothing to Samuel Davison, agent W. F. & Co., Topeka, Kansas, or W. H. Wallance, agent W. F. & Co., Lincoln, Nebraska, free.

JOHN J. VALENTINE,
General Superintendent.

Mr. Evans has the subscription list mentioned, in his office, and will be pleased to receive signatures accompanied with substantial donations of clothing or money, or both. There can be no doubt but what a state of utter destitution exists at present in Kansas and Nebraska. Portland is wealthy and prosperous, and has a well earned reputation of being generous. Let our good citizens not forget amidst their profusion, the hand of destitution and suffering which is stretched appealingly forth for help, nor turn away unheedingly from the strong appeals to the humane and charitable all over the broad land. While thousands and tens of thousands are without clothes or shelter, and in imminent danger of perishing from starvation, let our citizens not refuse to contribute of their substance. With that generosity which was shown when Chicago stood shivering in the cold, or Memphis was smitten with the yellow pestilence, or the floods in Louisiana had rendered thousands homeless, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express have again offered to forward clothing or money to the sufferers free of charge. Those who have a disposition to render such assistance, as lies within their power, to the destitute and starving thousands of the human race, will find Mr. Evans ready to receive and forward donations without charge. We hope to hear that Portland has not been backward in this most cogent appeal to charity.

The flood will not interfere with O'Brien, who is well supplied with cigars and tobacco.

THE LAST STROKE OF FORTUNE.

Twenty years ago an old house was still standing in Cologne, which showed to the street a frontage containing five small windows. It was the house in which the first painter of the Flemish school, the immortal Ruebens, was born, A. D. 1576. Sixty years later than this date the ground floor was occupied by two old people, a shoemaker and his wife. The upper story, which was usually let to lodgers, was empty at the time we write of. Two lodgers, however, occupied the garret. The evening was cold and wet, and the shoemaker and his wife were sitting together in the room below.

"You had better go up stairs again," said the old man to his wife, "and see how the poor lady is. The old gentleman went out early and has not been in since. Has she not taken anything?"

"It is only half an hour since I was up stairs, and he had not come in. I took her some broth at noon, but she hardly touched it, and I was up again at three; she was asleep then, and at five she said she would not want anything more."

"Poor lady! This time of year, and neither fire nor warm clothes, and not even a decent bed to lie on, and yet I am sure she is something or other. Have you noticed the respect with which the old gentleman treats her?"

"If she wants for anything it is her own fault. That ring she wears on her finger would get her the best of everything."

Then came a knock at the door, and the woman admitted the old man they had just spoken of, whose grizzled beard fell down upon the tarnished velvet coat. The hostess sadly wanted to have a little gossip with him, but he passed by, and bidding a short "good night," groped his way up the steep and crooked staircase. On entering the chamber above, a feeble voice inquired the cause of his long absence.

"I could not help it," he said. "I had been copying manuscript, and as I was on my way here a servant stopped me, who desired me to raise the horoscope of two ladies who were passing through the town; they were ladies whom I had known before. I thought I could get a little money to pay for some simples that will be of service to you."

"I am cold."

"It is very cold. I will make you something which you must take directly."

The flame of a small tin lamp sufficed to heat the water, and the patient, having taken what the old man had provided, was carefully covered up by him with all the clothes and articles of dress he could find. He stood by her motionless till he perceived that she was fast asleep, and indeed, long after; he then retired to a small closet, and sought repose on the hard floor.

The next morning the lady was so much better that her attendant proposed that he should endeavor to leave the house for a little while, and he succeeded in getting her to go as far as the Place Saint Cecilia. It was seldom that she left the house, for, notwithstanding the meanness of her dress, there was that about her carriage which rendered it difficult to avoid unpleasant observation.

"Do you see that person yonder?" she said suddenly. "If I am not much mistaken it is the Duke of Guise."

The stranger's attention had also been attracted, and he now approached them.

"Parbleu!" said he; "why this is Mascali. What, are you married?"

"He does not know me," sighed the lady. "I must have altered."

Mascali had, however, whispered a single word into the Duke's ear, and he started as if struck by a thunderbolt; but instantly recovering himself, he hastily took off his hat and bowed nearly to the ground.

"I beg your forgiveness," said he, "but my eyes are grown so weak, and I could so little expect to have the honor of meeting you—"

"For the love of God," interrupted the lady hastily, "name me not here. A title would too strangely contrast with my present circumstances. Have you been long in Cologne?"

"Three days. I am on my way from Italy. I took refuge here when our common enemy drove me forth and confiscated all my earthly goods. I am going to Brussels."

"And what are your advices from France? Is the helm still in the hands of that wretched caitiff?"

"He is in the zenith of his power."

"See, my Lord Duke, your fortunes and my own are much alike. You, the son of a man who, had he not too much despised danger, might well have set the crown on his own head, and I, once the queen of the mightiest nation in the universe; and now both of us alike—adieu," she said suddenly, and drawing herself up, "the sight of you, my Lord Duke, has refreshed me much, and I pray that fortune may once more smile upon your steps."

"Permit me to attend your majesty to—"

A slight color tinged the lady's features as she answered with a gently commanding tone;

"Leave us, my Lord Duke; it is our pleasure."

Guise bowed low, and taking the lady's hand, he pressed it reverently to his lips. At the corner of the street he met some one, to whom he pointed out the old lady, and then hastened away.

The next morning a knock at the door announced a person who was inquiring for Monsieur Mascali; he had a small package for him, and also a billet. Inside of this was written:

"Two hundred louis d'or constitute the whole of my present fortune; one hundred I send for your use. "GUISE."

And the package contained a hundred louis d'or.

The sum thus obtained sufficed to supply the wants of the pair two long years, but the last louis d'or had been changed, and the lady and her companion were still without friendly succor. The shoemaker and his wife had undertaken a journey to Aix-la Chapelle, to take up some small legacy. It was the 13th of February, 1632. A low sound of moaning might have been heard issuing from a garret; a withered form, more like a skeleton than a thing of flesh and blood, was lying on a wretched bed of straw in the agonies of death. The groans grew more and more distinct; a slight rattle in the throat was at length the only audible sound, and this also ceased. An hour later an old man, dressed in rags and tatters, entered the chamber; but one word had escaped his lips as he stumbled up the rickety staircase, "Nothing, nothing!" He drew near the bed listlessly, but in a moment he seized the arms of the corpse with a convulsive motion, and letting it suddenly fall, he cried:

"Dead, dead of hunger, cold and starvation!"

And this lady was Mary of Medicis, wife of Henry IV., Queen Regent of France, mother of Louis XIII.; of Isabella, Queen of Spain; of Henrietta, Queen of England; of Christina, Duchess of Savoy; of Gaston, Duke of Orleans—dead of hunger, cold and misery; and Louis XIII, the cowardly tool of Richelieu, his mother's murderer, is still called "the Just."

HAD SEEN KINGS ENOUGH.—A gentleman at Washington was requested by a friend to join him on a visit to the depot to witness the arrival of the King of the Sandwiches.

"No, sir, not much," growled the gentleman.

"Have you ever seen a king in your travels?" inquired the friend, marveling somewhat at his short answer.

"Yes, sir," replied the gentleman. "I was once guilty of seeing three kings." Then, after a moment's pause, went on to say: "And they cost me $150. These were war times, however."

His friend suggested he must have been in bad company.

"Well, I don't know," says the gentleman; "I thought I was in pretty good company at the time. I called to see those kings in company with three queens, another king and an ace-spot, and have never had any desire to see one of the royal family since."

His friend saw the point, said he passed, and shuffled on.

Healthful Stimulation.

Drinkable stimulants, provided they be absolutely pure, are among the most useful medicinal agents employed by physicians. When the tone of the system is lowered by the depressing influences of disease, or there is an inherent want of vigor in the constitution, they serve to counteract weakening tendencies, and cheer the mind of the desponding invalid. But when, as in the case of Hostetter's Bitters, they possess tonic and alterative properties, their effects are rendered permanent, and they accomplish a truly beneficial result. The Bitters not only relieve nervous debility and mental depression by their healthfully stimulative action, but infuse abiding vigor into the depleted system, and rectify those internal disturbances which are the real causes of weakness. The purity and the wholesomeness of the alcoholic basis of the Bitters greatly increases the efficacy of their botanic ingredients, a fact which the completeness of their curative effects sufficiently demonstrates.

WHERE THE BEAUTIFUL RIVERS FLOW

Oh I'll sing to-night of a fairy land in the lap of the ocean set
And of all the lands I've traveled o'er 'tis the loveliest I have met
Where the willows weep and the roses sleep and in balmy [illegible]
In that dear old land, that sweet old land where the beautiful rivers flow

But oh! alas! how weary long—'tis an exile breathes the strain
And that dear old land of my love I may never see again
And the very joy that fills my breast must ever change to woe
For that dear old land that sweet old land where the beautiful rivers flow

But I'll sing of the lonely old churchyard where our fathers' bones are laid—
Where the cloisters stand, those ruins grand that our tyrant foes have made
And I'll strike the harp with a mournful touch till the glistening tears will flow
For that dear old land, that sweet old land where the beautiful rivers flow

And I'll sing of Emmet's lonely fate and of Emmet's lonely grave—
Of his early doom and his youthful bloom and his spirits more than brave
And ah! how blest and calm his rest, tho' his grave be cold and low
In that dear old land that sweet old land where the beautiful rivers flow

And I'll sing of Tone and the Geraldine proud, Fitzgerald true and [illegible]—
They won their crown—the martyr's crown—and they sleep in the shade and rest
In heavenly mould their names are rolled—they died in manhood's glow
For that dear old land that sweet old land where the beautiful rivers flow

And I'll sing of Ireland's ancient days, when her sires were kingly men
Who led the chase, and the manly race thro' forest field and glen
Whose only word was the shining sword—whose pen the patriot's blow
For that dear old land, that sweet old land where the beautiful rivers flow

An effort is being made to naturalize the English bumble-bee in New Zealand. Considering the primitive simplicity of attire of the unsophisticated aborigines, it is to be hoped that the experiment may fail

"Faith," said an Irishman, who could not get into his cabin at Ballingarry, his wife having turned the key upon him, "it's meself that's regularly locked in" "In?" [illegible] a companion—"in where?" "Why, in the street."

"We cannot," writes a contemporary, "impress too strongly upon all correspondents, when in doubt whether the postage of a letter is a penny or two pence the force of the old proverb, 'Two heads are better than one.'"

"The child has since died," is the laconic remark which a Pennsylvania paper affixes to an account of a 12-year old girl who had already mastered logic, rhetoric, geology, botany, and the mysteries of mental and moral science

Conversation at breakfast table. Smith—"Ain't John rather late in bringing the mail this morning?" Jones—"I guess there is something on the postal cards that he don't understand. He's probably reading them over twice"

A thief was arrested in England the other day who admitted his guilt and asked that sentence be passed as a protection to himself and the public. "For," said he "it is a terrible thing that a fellow like me should be going about."

The exclamation of an old lady on hearing of the execution of a man who had once lived in the neighborhood, was "Well, I know'd he'd come to the gallows at last, for the knot in his handkerchief was always slipping round under his left ear"

They were just going up the steps to the President's room, when the Senator suddenly turned to the applicant for office by his side, and said, "Oh, by the way, what are your politics?" "Well," says the office seeker, "I've always been a Democrat, but I can turn." Of course he could

An exchange tells us that "the law in Minnesota won't allow a father to thrash a child over 16 years old." In Kentucky it is not the law that prevents the father from thrashing a child over 16 years old. As a general thing the child attends to that little matter himself—Louisville Courier-Journal.

At this period of the year a voice steals at early morn through the key hole of domestic chambers "Mary Jane get up and fix the fire," and a prompt and cheerful echo responds "I'll see you dod rotted first and then I won't you old brute." Such are the real sweet harmonies of domestic life

An old lady in town has become disgusted with almanacs. She says if all the people in the country were to stop buying almanacs, "maybe the printers who make 'em would put in some total eclipse of the sun and moon and some transits of Venuses that would be visible here."—Norristown Herald

You have a pleasant home and a bright fireside, with happy children sitting around it, haven't you?" said the Judge. "Yes, sir," said Mr Thompson who thought he saw a way out of the difficulty "Well," said the Judge, "if the happy children sit around the cheerful fireside until you return they will stay there just forty three days, as I shall have to send you up for that time."—Cin[illegible] Times

The kind of whisky they have in 'Frisco.—"After that the cloth was took off, and the liquors was brought. And wot liquors they wuz too! The whisky wuz none o' this yer kind that makes a man feel like swearin'. [illegible] makes him smash things generally. No sir. It war the kind that just makes a man lift his glass up gently and says: '[illegible] old pard, I'm lookin' at yer.'"

Yesterday while some negro steamboat men were being paid off, the Clerk inquired of each one as he came to sign the pay-roll. "Will you write your name or make an X?" The first one said he could write his name and the pen was handed to him. He looked at the pen, scrutinized the pay-roll, and [illegible] so long that the Clerk [illegible] him up. "Let's see," mused the darkey, [illegible] he looked up at the clock, "it's now 10 o'clock and as I've got to meet a feller at the City Hall at noon, I guess I won't write my name but I'll put down an X."—Det[illegible]

A Frenchman was about to be hanged for a criminal offense. As there was no professional executioner available for the occasion, the painful duty of carrying out the sentence devolved upon an amateur, who apologized for possible shortcomings to the person principally concerned. "I hope you'll pardon me," said he, "if I put you to any unnecessary inconvenience, but the fact is I have never hanged any one before." "Pray do not mention it," replied the other with the greatest sang froid. "For that matter I have never been hanged before. We must each do our best."

A small amount of local business has been done to-day but its limited extent deprives it of importance to the public at large. In financial affairs the market is perfectly quiet with a general feeling of ease for the present and a fair degree of hopefulness in the future

As no freights can be crossed to or from the east side train, the river being still closed by ice in all directions there are no orders being filled for points in the interior except a few, perhaps for merchants on this side who receive their goods by rail

In the retail trade in our city rather more activity was noticed to day than at any former time since the freeze, yet this does not suffice to give matters the appearance of any animation while steamers and ferries even are compelled to stay close in their winter quarters.

The regular steamer which should have sailed for this port from San Francisco to-day is not reported to have sailed and it is not likely she will start until she receives word that the river will probably be clear of ice on her arrival. The Ajax which came to Astoria is now at San Francisco

WHEAT—No transactions are taking place in our market. Exporters are still uncertain as to the extent that all be what they will be able to get. [illegible] already made off their hands and are advising their agents in the interior to push [illegible] cautiously, owing to the depressed condition of the English market for Pacific coast cargoes. As soon however as the ice embargo is removed a number of vessels may be expected to begin loading both here and at Astoria, and stocks of both wheat and flour which somewhat accumulated during the first half of this month will move off quite rapidly. Not until then can we expect any activity in the market. Nominal quotations at present are $1 55@1 57½ by exporters while millers still quote choice lots at $1 40 per cental.

FLOUR—Receipts during the past ten days have averaged light, not perhaps exceeding the wants of the local trade but stocks at hand are quite large. WAR CLAIM AGENCY,
No. 34 MONTGOMERY BLOCK,
SAN FRANCISCO CAL

W. H. AIKEN ATTORNEY AT LAW AND Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic in California and Nevada will give prompt attention to the collection of Additional Travel Pay, now due California and Nevada Volunteers discharged more than three hundred miles from home. Soldiers can depend on fair dealing. Information given free of charge. When writing enclose stamp for reply and state company and regiment, and whether you have a discharge. Congress has extended the time for filing claims for additional Bounty under Act of July 28 1866 to January 1877, so all such claims must be made before that time. Original Bounty of $100 has been allowed all volunteers who enlisted before July 22 1861 for three years if not paid the [illegible] when discharged. Land Warrants can be obtained for services rendered before 1855 but not for services in the late war. Pensions for late war and war of 1812 obtained and increased when allowed for less than disability warrants but no pensions are allowed to Mexican and Florida war soldiers. State of Texas has granted Pensions to surviving veterans of Texas Revolution. New Orleans and Mobile Prize Money is now due and being paid. W. H. Aiken also attends to General Law and Collection Business.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs Colds Consumption that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR

Advancing years sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor by long and extensive use has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately, often renews the growth and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies hair the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.
